

*Look Inside!
Selections*

Chief R. Stacey Laforme

*Love
Life
Loss*

*and a little bit
of hope*

Poems from the Soul

Love
Life
Loss

and a little bit
of hope

Poems from the Soul

Love
Life
Loss

*and a little bit
of hope*

Chief K. Stacey Laforme

Foreword by Kevin Hearn

Afterword by Kate Laforme

Calgary, Alberta, Canada

DURVILE.COM

UpRoute Imprint of Durville Publications Ltd.
Calgary, Alberta, Canada
www.durville.com

Copyright © 2024 Chief R. Stacey Laforme

Library and Archives Cataloging in Publications Data

LOVE LIFE LOSS
and a little bit of hope

Laforme, Chief R. Stacey; Author
Hearn, Kevin, Foreword
Laforme, Kate, Afterword
Gibbon, Samantha; Illustrator

1. First Nations | 2. Anishinaabe | 3. Poetry
4. Truth and Reconciliation | 5. Indigenous Peoples

The UpRoute "Spirit of Nature" Series

Series Editors, Raymond Yakeleya and Lorene Shyba
Issued in print and electronic formats
ISBN: 978-1-990735-43-1 (pbk); xx (e-pub)
xx (audiobook)

Front cover design, Samantha Gibbon | Book design, Lorene Shyba.

The lands where our studios stand are a part of the ancient homeland and traditional territory of many Indigenous Nations, as places of hunting, travel, trade, and healing. The Treaty 7 Peoples of Southern Alberta include the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai of the Niisitapi (Blackfoot) Confederacy; the Dene Tsuut'ina; and the Chiniki, Bears paw, and Wesley Stoney Nakoda First Nations. We also acknowledge the homeland of the Métis Nation of Alberta. We honour the Nations and Peoples, as well as the land. We commit to serving the needs of Indigenous Peoples today and into the future.

Durville Publications acknowledges financial support for book development and production from the Government of Canada through Canadian Heritage, Canada Book Fund and the Government of Alberta, Alberta Media Fund.

All rights reserved. No part of this publication may be produced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted in any form or by any means without prior written consent.

Contact Durville Publications Ltd. for details.

Dedication

I dedicate this book to everyone who has lost someone special. To everyone who struggles with that loss, that pain, and who tries to find the sun behind the clouds.

Contents

Foreword, Allyship	9	Everything	45
Prologue, Storytelling	12	Sunshine	46
Imagination	14	Family	48
Common Ground	16	Mother's Day	51
Who Am I	18	Hero Unsung	52
Souls	20	Magic	54
Gifts	22	Pain	56
Baamaapii	23	Justice	57
Old Friend	26	Truth of This Land	60
Walk with Me	29	Reconciliation/215	62
I Promise	30	What If	64
Nii Jii	32	Debwewin (Truth)	66
Anger/Rage	35	Orange Shirt Day	67
My Wish	37	Truth	68
Hope	38	What is Beauty	69
Grief	40	Inspiration	71
Prayer	42	My Truth	72
Light Dark	44	Thank You	74
		Biindigin (Welcome)	75

Mortal	76	Humanity	121
From Love	78	Shadows	122
My Boy	80	Spirit Bear	124
What is Brave.....	83	I Am Home.....	125
Nashville Dream.....	84	A Broken Heart.....	127
Angel.....	86	Smile	129
Zaagi idiwin/leafde.....	88	Awake.....	130
Unconditional	90	Another Journey.....	132
Mother	92	Patience	135
Walks Forever Woman ..	94	Love	136
The Red Oak	96	Beast.....	138
Stand	97	My Belief.....	139
Tree	98	Hurricane or Just Wind.	140
Home	100	Life.....	141
Forest Rain	102	Birth Day.....	142
Mother	103	Honour.....	144
Climate Change?	106	I See You	145
It Is Time	108	Always Observed.....	146
Justice is Blind	109	The Clock Ticks On.....	148
Who I Am	110	A little bit of hope	150
Masks	112	The Prince of New Credit (A Bonus).....	152
Live.....	114
Humans are Funny.....	116
Love	118	Afterword	156
Happy Mother's Day	120	About the Author	160

Foreword

Allyship

BACK IN 2016, I had the honour of helping Gord Downie bring his “Secret Path” record to the live stage. Before the first concert in Ottawa, Gord, along with me and the rest of the Secret Path band, were invited to participate in a healing ceremony with residential school survivors. The experience deeply affected me—in fact it changed my life. I embraced the idea of allyship. I made a personal commitment to learn more, and do more. The journey has been difficult, humbling, and rewarding.

I believe that anyone who sets out on this path will soon meet friends and teachers along the way. Giima Stacey Laforme has been one of my great teachers. His lessons are available to all who read his poems, which are rich in wisdom and gracefully articulated in down-to-earth language that gets right to the heart of the matter.

In 2019, I helped the Downie and Wenjak families restage The Secret Path at Massey Hall. This time, Gord’s songs would be sung by an amazing lineup of artists, both Indigenous and non-Indigenous, including Tanya Tagaq, William Prince, Lori Blondeau, and members of The Tragically Hip.

In a typical concert, before the music begins, it's customary to have welcoming and informative speeches from individuals affiliated with the Gord Downie & Chanie Wenjack Fund (DWF). However, for the upcoming performance, I aimed to create a transition that would seamlessly guide the audience from the speeches to the musical experience. I envisioned a spoken word piece infused with creative expression, designed to encapsulate the essence and purpose of the event. Ideally, it would eloquently convey the significance of the gathering.

Through my work with the DWF, I had become friends with Chief Perry Bellegarde, former National Chief of the Assembly of First Nations (AFN), and his wife Valerie (Galley) Bellegarde. I asked them if they knew of any Indigenous poets or writers who might be interested in participating in this bridge building between the speeches and the music. They immediately recommended Chief Stacey Laforme.

I ordered Chief Stacey's book Living in the Tall Grass: Poems of Reconciliation. A few days later, I sat down and read it from cover to cover. Then, at the Massey Hall event, Stacey's live reading of his powerful poem "Prayer" set the perfect tone for the heartfelt performances that were to follow. Chief Stacey and I have continued to collaborate and perform together since then.

In his new book Love Life Loss and a little bit of hope, Stacey's graceful way of addressing some of the deepest human experiences is even more powerful and inspiring. Here, he presents thought-provoking and healing meditations on this journey of life. He writes from experience, from his perspective as a son, father, husband, community leader, but most of all as a human being. In other poems, he may suddenly give voice to a grandmother, a tree, or a bison.

In the poem "Walk With Me" he writes:

See the world as I see the world.

Understand the world
as I understand it.

Let us learn from each other ...

He invites us to walk with him, and to see the world as he sees it. Not only is this an invitation we should accept, but it is also a beautiful and generous gift.

—Kevin Hearn

Musician, and member of the band

Barenaked Ladies

2024

Prologue
Storytelling

I TELL STORIES USING POETRY. A moment in time written from the perspective of the subject of the poem. They are not all written in first person, but enough so that you may notice.

It was my intent to write a book that chronicled my life to this point.

It has been an interesting journey through violence and abuse, homelessness and despair. Yet it has also been a life of accomplishment.

I intended to tell you my story using poetry and prose to get to this moment in time. Yet when I sat down to write this tale. I realized that a lot of the poems I wrote would not be included in that story as they were written during the pandemic, or they were written about the uncovering of our children on sites at residential schools. They dealt with love, life, loss, and hope, and I realized this is the story I want to share.

I was again envisioning chapters and sections similar to my other book Living in the Tall Grass, but I soon realized that it wasn't going to be possible. You see love, life, loss, and hope are a part of not just one story but almost every story.

I think it is important to understand and share some of those moments with each other, so we can begin to heal. So that we do not lose faith in the world that surrounds us.

So, each of us can be reminded that it is our responsibility to try and make the world a little better for our children and their children.

Every poem I write, every story I tell, I live through. I experience the moments and the emotions that go along with the story, and I want my readers to experience it as well and the only way to do that is to leave a little something of yourself behind.

Usually, I state that once the poem/story is over it no longer owns me, or I no longer own it. This book and the stories within may stay with me forever.

— Giima R. Stacey Laforme, 2024

Imagination

We lose touch with our inner magic Our imagination was the catalyst for so many of our adventures as a child Adventures that allowed us to escape and become anything or anybody

Strange we seem to let that imagination slip away

Some would say we refocus it on practical things

Things in life that matter

But this magic is something we should hold onto

Because it does matter

It reminds us of grand adventures, it reminds us of hope

And in these magic moments we matter

We remember that we are heroes, adventurers

Maybe only in our own stories, maybe only for moments, but we are heroes

And that is so important in the day after day routine that becomes our lives

I wish I still had the imagination to let my mind take me on an adventure

But though I still collect action figures and toys, they mostly stay on the shelf or in the box

No more dragons for me to slay or supervillains to conquer

I remember those journeys, those adventures,
I miss them, but I cannot relive them

The magic or the imagination if you wish has left me

I have searched inside for it but though I may glimpse it, it is not attainable

I remember when every cloud was its own story

I will not give up, I will look to the heavens,
I will examine those clouds

And I will dream and soar

And once again for a moment
I will be the most important thing in my life.

Common Ground

Everyone bears something of themselves in this poem and that teaches us that no matter how far apart we may seem, we are never so far that we cannot find common ground.

No one thing can define us
For we are complex creatures, dreamed in the mind of the Creator

We laugh when we should cry
We cry when we should laugh
We joke when in pain

We smile because tears could consume us
We love unconditionally and totally

We understand that family should come first
Yet family is not defined solely by blood

We are quick to anger, yet no one forgives faster
We are loyal and we are strong

When we commit, we are unwavering
We have survived much, but do not mistake adaptation for resignation

You will always see us, for we will always be here

Standing for what we believe in, standing beside each other

Doing what is right for our children, our future

We remember our obligation to our Mother the Earth

And we remember our place upon her

We are a proud people and honourable people

We do not always do right, for we are human

And prone to the follies of humanity

Yet we strive to be better, to make each other better

To make the world a better place for the children

I know the Creator smiles upon us, no matter where we are, or what we do

For the love of a child is unconditional

No matter where life takes you, walk proud.

Who Am I

Who am I, where do I belong?

It is a question that all seek to answer

Some people will try and tell you who you are or who you are not

They will tell you that you do or do not belong

Never listen to them,
for who you are is always here

In your breast where your spirit lives

Your heart and spirit
remember even if your mind forgets

We may lose our way

We may need to seek others to help guide us

But inside,
sometimes deep inside, there is the answer

It sometimes takes language or culture to guide us

You were dreamed in the mind of the Creator

The Creator dreamed of the most beautiful creature he could imagine

Then he made you
You know this

Your mind just needs to listen to your heart and remember
Who you are and where you belong

Everywhere
It sometimes takes sport or learning for there is no one way

Yet once we understand and come to realize who we are We come to understand that we belong anywhere and everywhere

Never let another determine who you are,
or tell you where you belong
You know your worth, your value.